SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA NEWS-PAPER MEN HOLD ALL-DAY MEETING IN L. A.

Editors and publishers of Southern California met Monday, September 17 for an all-day meeting at the Clark Hotel, Los Angeles. Harlan G. Palmer, who has ably served as president of the Association, was in the chair, and in the absence of Sam Green, the secretary, C. H. Turner, first vice-president of the Association, served as secretary and treasurer.

The attendance was large and the interest in the program was intense. E. E. Fairchild of the Los Angeles Examiner told the members present a few things that big newspapers do that small newspapers also ought to do. Small newspapers, like big ones, should economize in the use of wrapping paper, cord, and judiciously handling refuse metal. He showed that the Examiner is saving thousands of dollars every year now on account of having adopted economic ways of handling waste material.

Rev. Billy Sunday appeared before the newspaper men with his whole tabernacle working force, including Mrs. Sunday. Rodeheaver, the great musician of the Sunday party, was present with his trombone and his enthusiasm, and for a few minutes entertained the members of the Association. The gentlemen of the Sunday party who play the pianos at the tabernacle presided at the Hotel Clark piano and gave an example of how skillfully they can manipulate the keys.

Billy Sunday's address was of the whirlwind style, but from beginning to end it was full of fundamental truths and an earnestness that the hearers were bound to respect. Rev. Sunday, although very active, has a nervous appearance and, like a race horse, seems anxious for the starting signal to be given.

A. A. Butterworth, a member of the Los Angeles Ad club, gave a very logical talk on the value of advertising and showed that many now big concerns had been made so by the right kind of advertising. He referred to Billy Sunday as being probably the greatest advertised man in the world to-day.

Harry Webster, the very clever advertising manager of the San Bernardino Sun, gave a report of the Ad club meeting recently held at Oakland.

An interesting feature of the day's events was the luncheon which was served at Hotel Clark at 12:30 o'clock.

The afternoon program opened with an address by Harry Andrews, managing editor of the Los Angeles Times. Mr. Andrews devoted most of his time to warning the newspaper men to be slow to accept advertising reading notices from paid press agents unless such reading notices are paid for at regulation advertising rates. Mr. Andrews declared that the average newspaper publisher is a real "boob" when it comes to allowing press agents to do him.

The balance of the afternoon session was given up to short talks by the members of the Association in which the high cost of news print paper was considered, the publicity of war bonds, etc.

In speaking upon the subject of ethics, E. O. Wickhizer, of the South Pasadena Record, had adopted the plan of dropping the title Dr. from the names of physicians who believed it was not good ethics to carry a directory card in his paper. He applies the same rule to attorneys who are of the real ethical turn of mind.

The election of officers for the ensuing year resulted as follows: Crombie Allen, Ontario, president. Judge Rennie, Venice, vice-president.

C. H. Turner, Redondo, secretary and treasurer.

The banquet was held in Hotel Clark at 6 o'clock. The after-dinner addresses were given by Attorney William J. Palmer, Hon. Joseph Scott and Friend William Richardson, state treasurer of California.

The day's program closed with appropriate remarks by the newly elected president, Crombie Allen. Mr. Allen is the publisher of the Ontario Report and he is also a member of the General Assembly at Sacramento.

The Southern California Editorial Association has been an active association for more than 25 years, and the past three years under the leadership of Harlan G. Palmer, the Association has done very active work.

MISS THAYER AT U. S. C.

Miss Mabel Thayer, who has been Supervisor of the Manual Training Department in the Glendale city schools for several years, will take special work in the U. S. C. this year.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

NEW PLAN FOR RECITATION PERIODS—GYMNASIUM WORK WILL BE COMPULSORY

A new plan is being worked out in the arrangement of the periods this year. Instead of the former plan of having five periods in the morning and three in the afternoon, there are now four in the morning and four in the afternoon. In this way there is room for two double periods in the morning and two in the afternoon. An extra half-hour period has been added just before noon which is to be used as an assembly whenever there is any business or on special occasions. On other days it will be used as a consultation period. Each class will be assigned a certain room where it will be in charge of a teacher and will be able to discuss class affairs, or it may be used as a study period.

It is to be hoped that even more enthusiasm regarding athletics will be shown this year than last. Unfortunately the boys' gymnasium teacher has not as yet arrived, although most of the boys think they are having a snap.

On account of a decision made by the State Board of Education, two hours of gymnasium a week are compulsory to every pupil unless physically unfit. As last year only two forty-five minute periods were required, the new arrangement is expected to raise the standard of athletics.

Two new classes in English have been formed: one for the boys under Miss Darsie, another for the girls under Miss Eggert. These classes are for pupils who do not want the classical English but are looking for something more practical.

RED CROSS WORKERS

At a meeting of the principals and presidents of the Parent-Teacher Association of the Glendale city schools called at the home of Mrs. Mabel Franklin Ocker, 200 South Central avenue Monday evening to consider the organization of a junior Red Cross, a number responded. The committee of Red Cross officers who have this matter in charge are T. F. McCrea, Mrs. Maybelle Douglass and Mrs. Mabel Franklin Ocker.

Mr. William Hush, field representative of the Pacific Division, was present and outlined the work. T. F. McCrea presided and the following responded to the call: Richardson D. White, supervising principal, Mrs. F. G. Taylor, Mrs. Fanny G. Stone, Miss Lois B. Hatch, Miss Ida M. Waite, Mrs. M. O. Ryan, Miss Annie McIntyre, Mrs. B. H. Nichols, Mrs. Frank W. Chambers, Mrs. H. W. Yarrick, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur C. Brown.

Complete organization cannot be made until further instructions are received from Washington.

MONBERG-MCMASTERS WEDDING

Friends have just learned of the marriage of Miss Virginia McMaster, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. McMaster of 108 South Jackson street, Glendale, to G. Alstrup Monberg of this city, which occurred on Saturday, September 8, at the Mission apartments in Los Angeles, the home of Rev. Momter, who officiated. Following the ceremony the bride and groom left for Bay Island, Balboa, where the parents of the bride were staying, but they did not reveal the fact that they were husband and wife for several days. Mr. and Mrs. Monberg returned to Glendale Sunday and are residing with the bride's parents. Mr. Monberg expects to leave soon for Camp Lewis, American Lake, Wash., to train for service in France.

AN ORNAMENTAL WALL

A very neat wall is being built in the space along the front of the Bentley-Schoeneman Lumber Co.'s property, between their brick block and the alley just west of the Chamber of Commerce building. The wall is 100 feet in length and is about seven feet high. The surface will be finished with white plaster beautifully ornamented.

Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Leeds and little son Willard have been enjoying a two weeks' outing at Balboa Beach. While preferring the mountains for an outing, they found this beach very pleasant. During their stay they entertained a number of visitors from both Glendale and Los Angeles. Among them were Mr. and Mrs. Roy S. Smith and Miss Rilla Aird of Los Angeles, Miss Tessa Bott and Asa Bott of Glendale.

WEATHER FORECAST—Fair to night and Wednesday. Westerly winds.

MAY DRAFT ADDITIONAL 100,000

WAR DEPARTMENT MAY CONSCRIPT MEN TO FILL GAPS IN AVIATION AND TELEGRAPH BRANCHES

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

WASHINGTON, September 18.—To fill the army signal corps the War department may decide to draft an additional 100,000 men. The Signal Service has asked for a decision on the method of filling the gaps existing in the aviation and telegraph branches of the service and the general staff is expected to answer within a few days. The draft law permits the filling of units below strength but holds that the added 100,000 men instead of being augmented by the first draft of 687,000 should be made up in an additional draft.

U. S. INTERESTED IN STRIKE ADJUSTMENT

COMMISSIONER OF IMMIGRATION OFFERS SERVICES AS MEDIATOR AND WILL TRY TO ADJUST DIFFERENCES

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

SAN FRANCISCO, September 18.—The United States government took a hand to-day in the strike of the iron trades union which is paralyzing ship building in the San Francisco Bay region and holding up contracts for $150,000,000 in government ships. Simultaneously with the word from Washington that the president had interested himself personally in the adjustment of the strike, it was learned that W. T. Boyce, commissioner of immigration, had offered his services as mediator and immediately went into conference with both sides seeking a settlement of differences.

FRANCE DEMANDS ALSACE-LORRAINE

FRENCH PREMIER SAYS "SUPREME PHASE" OF WORLD STRUGGLE IS AT HAND

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

PARIS, September 18.—Declaring that the "supreme phase" of the war struggle is at hand, Premier Pamele reiterated to the Chamber of Deputies to-day that France demands the return of Alsace-Lorraine irrespective of whether the fate of battle reclaims that territory. France demands justice, reparation and damages, the Premier declared. He denounced a peace that contains the germs of future wars.

RUSSIAN OFFENSIVE SUCCESSFUL

SATISFACTORY REPORTS FROM RUSSIAN TROOPS ON RIGA FRONT AND IN ROUMANIA

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

PETROGRAD, September 18.—Russian troops are successfully essaying an offensive on two battle fronts. On the Riga front satisfactory progress is reported. Official reports say the troops are occupying enemy fortified positions at points on the Roumanian front.

"VICTORY" WAR SLOGAN OF BUSINESS MEN

ATLANTIC CITY, Sept. 18.—With "victory" as their slogan, American business men met here to-day for their first war convention. Leaders in finance, trade and industry, in the greatest gathering of its kind ever held in this country, met to discuss their war duties and to prepare for readjustments after the world struggle ends.

President Wilson in person, or a message from him through one of his cabinet members, will be an outstanding feature.

Prices, priorities, industrial relations, diplomatic problems—the whole sweep of war's intricate questions—will be treated in addresses by the country's war chiefs and distinguished foreign representatives. The convention was called by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

When the meetings close on Friday, America's business men will be in step with the country's march against autocracy. "Showing the whole world," said President R. G. Rhett, Charleston, S. C., "in what spirit and with what determination business faces the task ahead."

What may be done to control prices and profits will be one of the biggest problems before the business men. Secretary of War Baker, Secretary of Interior Lane, Food Administrator Herbert C. Hoover and Chairman Frank A. Scott of the War Industries Board, who are on the program, may touch on the price question. They will appeal for co-operation in war work.

President Rhett's message on private interests during the war is: "Every business man, firm or corporation must subordinate individual interests to the common cause. This they are ready to do; all that is needed is direction."

Secretary Elliott H. Goodwin stated that the Chamber of Commerce has gone flatly on record against war profiteering. "It must not be overlooked, however," he said, "that business cannot live without profit. That is the rule of the game. Patriotic business men are perfectly ready to work on another basis so long as they can live, but they must have clearly indicated what the new basis will be."

Special interest is shown in the address of Boris Bahmetieff, Russian ambassador, and of Lord Northcliffe, Chairman British Mission, who are on the program. Among prominent business men who will be heard by the convention are A. C. Bedford, president of Standard Oil, and George M. Reynolds, Chicago banker.

The discussion of readjustments to follow the war will deal with the course of prices, the return of the army into civil and industrial life and the new international relations of the United States.

Under ways and means by which business may most readily adjust itself to war conditions will come discussion of industries not essential to war. Food conservation, labor troubles and foreign trade also will be taken up.

How business may render greater service in winning the war will be a major topic throughout the convention. "The Chamber's Executive Committee," said President Rhett, "believes that the time has arrived when the business men of the nation should see what they may do to develop greater efficiency and render greater service in carrying the war to a quick and successful conclusion."

NEW BISHOP OF L. A.

FATHER CANTWELL OF SAN FRANCISCO APPOINTED TO SOUTHERN DIOCESE

Rev. James S. O'Neill, pastor of the Holy Family Catholic church of Glendale, was among a large number of priests from this section of California who assembled at St. Vibiana's Cathedral in Los Angeles this morning to do honor to the memory of Father Conaty, late beloved Bishop of Los Angeles, who died two years ago.

During the service a message was received from His Holiness, Pope Benedict, appointing Father Cantwell of San Francisco Bishop of Los Angeles to fill the vacancy left by Bishop Conaty's death. The diocese of Los Angeles has been without a head for the past two years, a very unusual occurrence in the history of the church. Bishop Muldoon of Rockford, Ill., was at first appointed for the place, but for some reason the appointment was recalled.

ANNOUNCEMENT PARTY

At a most charming affair given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. McIver, 502 East Colorado street, on Monday evening, the guests, after a pleasant evening spent in games, music and fancy work, were served delicious refreshments, the last course of which revealed the whole secret. A dainty basket of surprise bonbons revealed a tiny card containing the names of Mae McIver and L. Homer Stratton and announced the engagement of these popular young people.

Miss McIver is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. McIver and is a young lady of charming personality, a graduate of Glendale Union High School and very popular among the young people. Mr. Stratton is a young business man of Los Angeles.

The wedding will take place at four o'clock Saturday afternoon, only North Dakota friends beside the immediate family being present.

The guests at this most charming announcement party were Mrs. John Horsch, Miss Leta McCoy, Miss Ruth Byram, Miss Sarah Walker, Miss Marjorie Tyler, Miss Margaret McOmber, Miss Eusebia Farrand, Miss Dorothy Wilde, Miss Elsie Wilson, Miss Mollie Arbuthnot, Miss Helen Wallace, Miss May Lyon and Miss Florence Lyon of Illinois.

DOWNING LOCATES IN GLENDALE

Clyde C. Downing, of the firm of Sprowles & Downing, attorneys, Los Angeles, has opened an office at 409 South Brand boulevard, Glendale, and will spend all his time here. Mr. Downing has held several important positions before coming to California: 5 years in Washington, D. C., as secretary to Congressman Carter of Oklahoma, and secretary to New York City congressman and other prominent business and professional men of that city. He has been a resident of Glendale for two years and has been in actual practice for a year and a half. He is an expert public stenographer of 12 years' experience.

FAMILY DINNER PARTY

Mrs. G. Phillips and Miss Eva Daniels, 1424 West Colorado street, were the hosts at an informal dinner on Monday evening, the guests being largely relatives and members of their immediate family. The table was prettily centered by a mound of the seasonable fruit, the tempting white grapes. The guests enjoying this most pleasant affair were Mr. and Mrs. Salo Desky, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. E. Daniels, Miss Helen Daniels, Miss Reba Phillips, Victor W. Daniels and Harold W. Phillips.

APPRECIATION FOR DR. CHASE

Dr. R. E. Chase, who has given such efficient instruction to the First Aid Class which was organized by Mrs. C. E. Hutchinson, chairman of the Nurses' Division of the Red Cross, was the recipient of a delightful surprise on Monday evening and also of a very beautiful gift.

This First Aid class was the first one organized and has just completed its course and received their certificate, and the members, wishing to show their appreciation of Dr. Chase's generous efforts, assembled at the home of Mrs. Wm. Ramsay, South Adams street, and went in a body to the residence of Dr. Chase, 438 South Adams, where a most pleasant evening was spent. A handsomely bound copy of Riley's poems was presented by Mrs. C. E. Hutchinson in behalf of the class. During the evening delicious cake and coffee were served to the guests by Mrs. Chase.

CITY SCHOOLS OPEN

THIRTEEN HUNDRED PUPILS ENROLL IN CITY SCHOOLS ON OPENING DAY

The Glendale city schools opened Monday morning with an enrollment of 1300 pupils and 53 teachers.

Richardson D. White is superintendent and also is principal of the Intermediate school. Mr. White has been supervising principal for four years. A. B. Heacock has been appointed to fill out the term of L. E. Brockman on the school board. Mr. Brockman resigned on removing to Hemet. C. A. Marcy, instructor in physical training, is succeeded by R. E. Swaim. Miss Mabel Thayer, former head of the manual training department, is succeeded by Wilbur D. Harkness, with Earl Van Akin as assistant in this department. Norman Whytock of the Intermediate school went to Columbia University for summer work, intending to return to Glendale in the fall, but instead enlisted in a New York regiment.

The other principals are: Broadway, Mrs. Mary Ogden Ryan; Columbus avenue, Mrs. Cora F. Taylor; Central avenue, Miss Annie L. McIntyre; Colorado street, Miss Ida M. Waite; Pacific avenue, Mrs. Fannie O. Stone; Doran street, Miss Lois B. Hatch.

FEDERATION YEAR OPENS

The Glendale Federation Parent-Teacher Association held their meeting Monday at the Intermediate school. Mrs. Arthur C. Brown, the newly elected president, was in the chair.

If enthusiasm counts, the season opens auspiciously. Each chairman gave a short explanation of her desire to carry on the good work of this organization to a successful issue. The chairman stated that hereafter there would be a roll call. The federation extends greeting to the mothers of Glendale and invites those interested in children to visit the various schools on their meeting days.

MISS EVA DANIELS,
Chairman of Publicity.

EDITORS SHOULD STAND FIRM

The editor of the Evening News attended a meeting of the Southern California Editorial Association at Hotel Clark, Los Angeles, Monday. All discussions brought out the facts that country newspaper men are easy marks for those who wish to work free advertising through the papers. The newspapers are asked to promote this concern and that concern free of charge and the editors have not the grit and business tact to refuse. The advice given them was: stand firm and get what is honestly coming to you for your services.

RODEHEAVER COMING

Homer Rodeheaver, the great baritone, chorus leader and trombone soloist of the Billy Sunday party, will speak at the Glendale Baptist church to-morrow, Wednesday, morning, at 10 o'clock. Everybody invited. No collection. Don't be afraid. Come. Those who know "Rody" say he's simply great. Don't fail to hear him Wednesday, 10 a. m. Under direction of campaign committee.

SOMETHING NEW—GULF STATES PICNIC REUNION

A cordial invitation is extended to all former residents of the Gulf states, Texas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama and Florida, to join in a great popular picnic reunion in Sycamore Grove, Los Angeles, September 29th, all day, with basket picnic dinners at the noon hour. Coffee will be furnished free to all who buy the souvenir badge, but each one should bring dinner, cup and spoon. Many have lived in two or more of these states and this will give a chance to meet the old home friends of each state at once.

Come as early as you can and have a jolly social reunion with the home folks. There will be registers for all the counties of all the states. Enroll your names so friends may find you are here.

There will be a popular program after dinner with real Southern oratory, old plantation songs by genuine colored minstrels, rousing patriotic music and a "talkfest" for everybody.

Your friends will come in from all the surrounding towns to meet you. Tourists and visitors from each Gulf state will be welcome as well as all who live here. Any other information may be secured from the secretary of the Federation of State Societies, C. H. Parsons, office in California Savings Bank, Los Angeles, Main 5635—10459.

GLENDALE, CALIFORNIA, TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 18, 1917

TO REDUCE AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENTS

G. H. Grace, secretary of the central safety committee of the Pacific Electric, is preparing to inaugurate a campaign for the special purpose of reducing automobile accidents. In the study of the situation Grace reports as follows:

"A comparison of the total number of accidents with the total number of automobiles, shows that the number of accidents during 1915 was 2.20 per 1000 automobiles, as against 2.00 per 1000 in 1916 and 1.69 per 1000 for six months ending June 30, 1917.

"When it is realized that each automobile crosses our tracks many times each day and that we operate more than 7000 separate train and car movements daily along and across hundreds of streets and highways, it is readily seen that the percentage of accidents in the aggregate is exceedingly small.

"All of these casualties were avoidable and most, if not all, were due to the reckless disregard of consequences on the part of drivers.

"As a comparison, our records show that 138 persons were struck by cars in 1915 and 119 in 1916, the monthly average being 11.5 and 9.9, respectively, and for the first six months of 1917 the average is 6.3.

"However, the population has increased from approximately 600,000 in 1915 to 750,000 in 1917, the accident ratio being .02 persons per 1000 population in 1915, .015 per 1000 in 1916 and .01 per 1000 for the first six months of 1917.

"In other words, the number of accidents per 1000 automobiles, in 1915, was 110 times greater than persons struck by cars per 1000; 133 times greater in 1916 and 169 times greater in 1917.

"At the same time, proportionately with the increase in the number of automobiles and population, police records will doubtless show steady increase in the number of accidents involving pedestrians and automobiles.

"It would seem quite evident, therefore, that the responsibility for the majority of accidents involving automobiles must be placed with the drivers.

"The railway car travels in a fixed path and cannot cut corners nor dodge in and out to prevent an accident; the very celerity of movement or 'get up and go' possibility of the automobile invites the driver to take a chance, which is all the greater reason for extra watchfulness and care on the part of motormen in looking out for the other fellow."

WATCH YOUR OWN HEALTH

Of course, it's a good thing to guard against impure water, impure milk, tainted food. Of course, it's good public policy to swat the fly and eliminate the mosquito. Of course it is the wise thing to fumigate and to quarantine.

But we venture the opinion, strictly non-professional, that these things are not the fundamentals. We have an impression that, despite all precautions, the germs and bacilli and other causes of disease lurk practically everywhere, and that we are exposed to them every day. It is largely a question, we opine, whether the system is sufficiently strong and healthy to throw off the infection or contagion.

If that be true, the important thing is to look after our own bodies through our habits—to eat and drink wisely, to be of cleanly habit, to dress wisely, to live so as to give our bodies a chance to be strong and wholesome, that they may repay us with health and happiness. If we give a fair chance to our bodies we can jeer at the germ and bluff the bacilli.

If we do not, disease settles down on the weakened body with-

STEPS TOWARD DEMOCRACY

Inch by inch, democracy is gaining ground in Germany in spite of the bitter resistance of the ruling classes.

Since the recent crisis, steps toward parliamentary government have been taken which can never be retraced. There are signs that the progress indicated by these steps will become more and more rapid.

In the old days, German diplomacy was practically in the hands of the chancellor. The autocracy took the steps which brought the nation into war. It was responsible for the long chain of events which brought about the situation making war almost certain.

Apparently the new "Free Commission," just created, representing various states of the empire, will be an important factor in making peace.

While the new system does not establish parliamentary government, and in some respects it is antagonistic to the parliamentary system, it does serve to bring the emperor and the representatives of states into closer relationship.

Undoubtedly this is a grudging concession to the demand for democratic government. The fact that it was granted is an indication of the growth of the democratic spirit in Germany.

It is hardly likely the new commission will exercise much influence at first, but it serves to establish the connection between the ruler and the people.

Rapid growth in influence is certain, as concessions of this sort once made can not be limited by the arbitrary rule of the war lord.

Full parliamentary government is nearly certain to be the result in a comparatively short time. When once the principle is established that the people have a right to share in the control of the government, they become jealous of their authority and will resist any attempt to weaken it.

Emperor William and Dr. Michaelis have started something they cannot stop.—Sacramento Union.

EDITING A NEWSPAPER

Editing a newspaper is a pleasant business—if you can stand it. If business is bad—it's because the editor wants too much money for his advertising space.

If business is good—advertising hasn't anything to do with it, but conditions are right.

If we print what pleases the people—that is our duty and we deserve no credit.

If we print what displeases—we are a grouch and a crepe-hanger, and don't deserve the patronage of the public.

If we print the news as it actually is—people call us over the phone and tell us to stop their paper.

If we garble it—they tell us we are subsidized by the corporate interests.

STEEL PLATES

"John," said Mrs. Jenkins, looking up from the evening paper, "you know how many dishes Kate has broken lately?"

"Yes," said John, "what of it?"
"Well," continued the lady, "there is something in the paper about steel plates. I don't know just what they are, but I should think they might be indestructible."—Liverpool Post.

BALLADE OF SIGHTS AND SMILES

The changing seasons may come and go,
Aurora's chariot traverse the sky,—
And yet 'tis as true as the winds that blow,

Troubles and sorrows cause many a sigh—
Which we, in our ignorance, would defy;
But mother-love whispers: " 'Tis well worth the while,

God an antidote will supply,
Smother your troubles with many a smile."
In childhood's days it was a broken bow,
Or a rebel kite that refused to fly;
Or a battered doll;—for we all of us know

Troubles and sorrows cause many a sigh
To the child heart, grieving and longing to cry—
Which none but a mother can reconcile,

As she soothingly murmurs: "My dear, just try,
Smother your troubles with many a smile."
When older—and crises their tentacles throw

About our ambitions, so lofty and high,
We find this an adage we never outgrow—
Troubles and sorrows cause many a sigh,

Which reason nor justice can e'er justify;
But summoning courage our griefs to defy,—
For only a coward grim fate can defile,—

We boldly God's antidote verify—
"Smother your troubles with many a smile."
For life is a school in which none can deny

Troubles and sorrows cause many a sigh;
Yet hark! hear the echo, " 'Tis well worth the while—
Smother your troubles with many a smile."

—Mrs. Caroline L. Sumner.

ENGLISH EDITOR'S WIT

Sir Francis Cowley Burnand, formerly editor of Punch, died at Ramsgate, England, at the age of eighty-one. He was a playwright and author of much light literature. Among his publications are "Happy Thoughts," 1866; the Happy Thought Series; "Modern Sandford and Merton"; "New Light on Darkest Africa"; "Strapmore"; "Ride to Khiva"; "Ec-centric Guide to Isle of Thanet," and more than one hundred and twenty plays, chiefly burlesque and light comedies.

A born wit was the famous writer. A friend met him out walking one cold day, and accosted him with, "You never wear an overcoat, Burnand?" "No, I never was!" came back the answer, quick as a flash. Had he fresh in his mind, one wonders, the old answer to the riddle, "What is the difference between a great-coat and baby," which runs: "One you wear (were) and one you was!"

PARKERETTES

By Samuel Parker

The late Harrison Gray Otis, who for a quarter of a century stood more alone for Los Angeles than any other person in it, has been honored by his children, Harry Chandler and his wife, the wife being a daughter of the fallen chieftain whose good works they seek to perpetuate by publishing a letter of Gen. Otis to them, outlining the course to be pursued by the Times, the valuable property inherited by them. This letter is very characteristic, the Otis mark dominating every paragraph and clearly establishing its author as no ordinary man. That Gen. Fremont had California "in his pocket," was true, but no more true than that Gen. Otis had the Southland and Los Angeles in his paper and on and in his heart for ready transfer into print, for in no other way can be accounted for that never-varying volume of loyalty under the subtlety of which he never failed to declare (while just to other localities) that there was in the Southland "bigger, better and more of it than anywhere else outside the gates of Paradise." However great and valuable his long and useful life in other things, in no other way did he do his country more signal service than in his sleepless fight for the open shop. The maintenance of this principle, now well established, was worth all it cost and no one better understood the cost than Gen. Otis.

"However, should Billy Sunday begin next week to drop all sensationalism from his sermons, his audiences would begin to dwindle down, and it would soon be impossible for him to get the very persons whom he desires to hear him to come to his meetings.

"Sundays is a case of doing wrong that great good may come out of it. It is absolutely wrong to use such coarse language when preaching the gospel of Jesus Christ, but if that sensational and coarse language must be used to get the attention of people who are groveling in the depth of sin, the question of how may the greatest good be accomplished presents itself."

This criticism, nicely and well worded, is nevertheless unfair, as it lets the Master, John the Baptist, and a number of the prophets go free and piles it on Bro. Sunday. Surely it was no mild language or gentle gesture the Master used in cleansing the Temple (thieves), and John called his apostate brother Jews, "generation of vipers." If wrong in Sunday to use such coarse language in preaching the Gospel, will not the same condemnation hit the Master and John? In the statement that Sunday presents a pass up case of doing wrong that good may ensue, the critic begs the question. No such question is presented. That question is up in a case where the law was violated by a Sunday game of baseball played because the manager promised a per cent. of receipts to the Red Cross organization. It also appeared at a church fair once, where a wheel of fortune was run wide open, all for the benefit of the church.

That statesman who declared, "Let me write the songs of the nation and I little care who the law-makers are," was a philosopher and wise, perhaps, beyond any measure even taken of himself. The most stick-tight geography lessons of childhood were given in that way—countries, capitals, seas, lakes, rivers, bays, inlets, all were strung in a sort of rhythm and sung in a measured cadence, while the teacher pointed out the locality on the map. These can be sung to-day, though given 70 years ago; showing the power of song in charging the memory. Cardinal truths of religion, patriotism, kindness, benevolence, education, cannot be overestimated. Pity it is so little employed.

The most popular song of the War for the Union was Root's "The Union Forever." Having occasion for a buggy ride of 30 miles along a country road of much travel, we were frequently meeting teams, farmers en route for the market and trading-point, and at no point on the trip were we out of hearing of stalwart farmer voices making the woods ring with "Shouting the battle cry of freedom," a popular air then and complimented by Lincoln as "worth a regiment of soldiers." The air is yet on duty, has been all these years, at temperance and Sunday school meetings and conventions, and being catchy and easily sung, should be useful at our outdoor community concerts. Of equal popularity was and is Sherman's "Marching to the Sea."

What a never-ending column of rascality is belting this poor sinned globe of ours, on which we are so unconsciously riding. Our newspapers teem ad nauseam with reports of killings, robberies, defalcations, cussedness and misdemeanors galore, for which no proper name seems to be at hand. These globe-trotting villains, forever on the move, have it not entirely as they would like, for the same organs that publish the acts of criminality tell us that a column of official probers are after them in hot haste, "sure to overtake the rascal in the case and deal out to him punishment commensurate to the offense committed." Unfortunately for the dear public,

I Recommend This

A client of mine has a particularly choice suburban homesite of over two acres, set to oranges and other fruit, on a fine highway, with surroundings of unsurpassed natural beauty. He has recently refused a cash offer of $6,500 for the place. Wants to borrow $3,500, and will put $2,000 of this into further improvements. Moral risk A1.

One Notable Feature is prompt delivery, a customer often getting her order in half an hour after phoning it in, especially if she requests it at once is that every order is put up under the direct supervision of the boss who is on the job every minute of the day, six days in the week. So if anything is wrong, jump on to him, for he is to blame.

You are urged to eat lots of fish. Salmon and White Tuna are both very high. Albacore Tuna, a delicious substitute, can be bought for 10c and 20c a can. The White Tuna is 20c and 30c for same size cans.

Delicious, big Freestone Peaches, fine for slicing, can be had any day. Also big Muscat Grapes, sweet as sugar. Bell Apples, Pears, Bananas, and Oranges.

Our bulk Coffees, ground while you wait, are gaining us friends. Why pay 7c for tin to go around a pound of Coffee? Invest that 7c pure coffee instead.

the rascals travel by steam and electricity, while the official probers use the once useful (but now useless, so far as speed is concerned) horse, hence there is no use for a cow-catcher for the probers, except to protect the latter end of the quadruped.

"How like a mountain devil in the heart reigns this uncured ambition." This was in the "readers" one hundred years ago, and while the poet author was not firing at the Kaiser of to-day, there were others. Kaiserism has always afflicted the world and age adds to the degeneracy of the breed. It is not in the writer's heart to wish any harm to the present worst of the lot, except it be harm to wish for and pray for his dethronement, which we do under the charter rights. "Resistance to tyrants is obedience to God," but should he "quit," it would not be a task to write an appropriate obituary which not be printed as an eulogy in the public school readers.

It is quite generally conceded that should peace come speedily or be longer delayed, when it does come, two prime factors in its arrival will be President Wilson and Pope Benedict. The world so cursed by desolating war will gladly hear the flutter of the white wings of the dove of peace and bless the agencies, be it President or Pope.

It ought to be accepted as a fact (and it is quite generally) that the Creator was wise enough to know what limbs would be most useful "above the belt," on either man or woman. Sensible men and women have in a great measure consented to the wisdom of the Creator in this, but it seems to be the purpose of certain latter-day professors, artists, "et cetera," to convince the Almighty that he did not know his business. Hence from the days of Herod until now there have been professors to teach the Salomes that it's "high art" to reverse the old foggy idea and "vice versa" on the old order of things. The illustrative dance has invaded everything with the single exception of the funeral service.

TO-DAY, NOT TO-MORROW

By Nanno Woods
(Dedicated to the 9th Co. Los Angeles C. A. C., now stationed at Dead Man's Island, San Pedro.)

Not the scum of the town have been taken.

The boys we could easily spare,
But the finest and bravest of manhood.

The cleanest, the decent and fair;
And in camps they are busily training
To answer democracy's call,
To punish the war-lords of Prussia,
And hasten autocracy's fall.

As, we know not the week or the moment

Our boys may be ordered away,
The present is all we can count on.

The future looms misty and grey;
And when our dear laddies are daring
The enemy's pitiless shell,
Shall we wish we had done more to love them

Before they had tasted war's hell?

No off'ring of time or of money,
No sacrifice can be too great

To yield them our warmest devotion;
A month, and it may be too late.

Now, now is the time to encourage
And show them our hearts' richest cheer;

To-day—is the golden occasion,
To-morrow—they may not be here.

GIVING FREE SPACE

Editor News:

Chance took me into the Clark Hotel in Los Angeles to-day, and I heard my old friend Andrews, Editor of the Los Angeles Times, give the Southern California Editors, in convention assembled, particular fits about GIVING away so much valuable newspaper space, which costs good money to set up and print, not to mention the cost of white paper.

Ever since I have patronized your very readable paper, I have wondered at the amount of good space you donate to Glendale and Glendaleans. No one appreciates that so much as they who pay for their advertising, getting very few reading notices in the course of the year. You give away what must cost hundreds of dollars in the course of the year.

Mr. Andrews urged newspaper men who have plenty of brains (or ought to have) to manifest "more gizzard," or words to that effect, and insist on getting more for what they give, so they can afford to issue bigger and better papers. He was right.

Yours truly,

who, not wishing a free ad., does not give his name.

BOYS OF COAST ARTILLERY ARE HAPPY

Ellsworth Heald, 9th Co. Los Angeles Coast Artillery Corps (formerly the 21st), stationed at Lower Reservation Point (Dead Man's Island), visited at home over Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Heald, 912 Lomita avenue. He reports Glendale boys and the company as a whole in good health and spirits with the exception of a few temporarily indisposed from the after-effects of the vaccine and serum inoculations to which soldiers must submit. The island has not been occupied before by so large a body of men and consequently the 9th has had to do much of the work already done in other camps, such as laying pipe lines for water, erecting extra tent barracks, placing their flag pole and cleaning up generally. They take a pardonable pride in the result and in maintaining the present high standard of sanitation and order. He says: "We haven't many luxuries or delicacies and Mrs. Woods' suggestion of a 'pie and candy day' sounds mighty good, but our rations are wholesome and such inconveniences as we have experienced were cheerfully accepted by the boys as part of army life, and so far we have been too busy to miss some of the diversions provided at other camps."

GLENDALE EVENING NEWS.

NEW THOUGHT

Dr. Pfeiffer is proving a veritable gold mine (let's hope he skips this issue of the News). The Sunday morning platform service was exceedingly helpful and filled the lack we have long felt.

The twelfth chapter of Romans was read. Dr. Pfeiffer urged the emphasizing of the Bible and said, "Reverence the Bible; give it the supreme place. Nothing is more spiritual or more uplifting. It has been said that heaven is not another locality but another way of looking at things. So of New Thought: it is not another religion but another way of looking at things."

"The fourth chapter of Philipians was read and those beautiful verses though seeming oftentimes trite, were given their proper appeal."

"Heartshine is better than sunshine. Don't over-emphasize limitations or troubles. What of it? is a good motto. Read Christian D. Larsen's book, 'Just Be Glad.' Be glad if the inner fountain is not clogged up."

"Smile a while. Many cannot understand the old thought as preached from the pulpit nor the new thought, but all can understand the gospel of a smile."

"We know that God is all in all but fail to make the connection. The highest prayer is to be conscious every moment in thought with our oneness with that power within ourselves from whom we never can be separated."

"We can so change our thought that we can be constantly happy. Rejoice in the consciousness of the indwelling of God. Be anxious for nothing. How practical this thought of the indwelling power is for everyday life, for every day is the holy day."

"When forced against a wall of difficulties, a door of escape is seen. That door is always there. Fear closes it; love opens it."

"May we never get away from the spirit of prayer. Prayer is being in tune with the Infinite. And be grateful remembering that thanksgiving is thanksgiving."

Don't miss the inspiration of the Bible class next Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Paul, 533 Orange street, conducted by Dr. Pfeiffer.

The evening service was in charge of Dr. Riley with the subject "How We Can Help Our Boys During the War." "Face fearlessly this war situation. Our chief fear is fear of death. Get rid of nervous fear for very often such fear will bring on you that which you fear. If fearless and calm you make the right move at the right time. We do not take time to be still and hear the inner voice."

"Declare and know thoughts of life instead of thoughts of death. Affirm instead of deny. God is ever present and omnipotent. My loved ones abide in the secret places of the Most High. When a morbid or death thought comes into your mind, put it out; replace it with the right thought. When a thought of depression comes, replace it with a thought of joyousness and gratitude. Replace resentment with a thought of love. Replace the poverty thought with the thought of abundance."

"Before you go to bed at night and before you get up in the morning adjust your mind, put yourself right. Keep your mental mirror polished so as to throw out radiations of light. God does the protecting, we are only instruments through which he works."

THE ELDER'S DECEPTION

Wild howls came from around the corner of the residence of Mr. Gap Johnson, of Rumpus Ridge, Ark. After a certain season Mr. Johnson sauntered out to investigate.

"Yur, you young varmint!" he demanded. "What in torment are you doing with that there baby?"

"The Presiding Elder is a liar!" they whooped. "He said Rowdy was a bouncing baby. We've dropped him about a dozen times, and he didn't bounce worth a darn!"—Life.

PRODIGAL HOSPITALITY

Jones was urging Smith to run over to dinner some time. "But I am afraid that your wife will go to a lot of trouble," Smith demurred.

"A lot of trouble—nonsense!" replied the hospitable man. "It just means to boil an extra potato. And what is seventy-five cents between friends?"—Life.

"UNLESS"

The convicted man had just received his sentence and was being led out.

"Poor man, is there anything I can do for you?" asked a sympathetic woman from the audience.

"No, mum," said the prisoner, "unless you'd like to do this three years."
—Detroit Saturday Night.

WRECKED

"You refused me ten years ago."

"I remember," said the heiress. "You said it would wreck your life."

"It did. I have had to work for a living ever since."—Life.

NEWSPAPER MEN SHOULD BE ON SQUARE

Hon. Joseph Scott who addressed the newspaper men of Southern California at Hotel Clark, Monday evening, made a strong plea for clean newspaper articles, and advised every newspaper publisher to be absolutely on the square.

"If you are misinformed and publish something that is not true, do not hesitate to make the correction," is the advice of Mr. Scott. "All men make mistakes, including lawyers, and they are required to apologize before courts, and why should not newspaper men be ready and willing to make retractions when they are in the wrong?"

Mr. Scott reminded his hearers that it is noble to admit an injustice done toward a fellowman.

A brief review was given of his work on the appeal board. He spoke of the large number of letters he received in which various claims were set forth that injustice is being dealt out to the men without influence and political pull. He emphasized the importance of newspapers making clear the present conditions existing in this world and thus assist in having the people understand that war really exists and it can not come to a close until it is settled and settled right.

GERMANS DESTROY FISH IN OCCUPIED FRANCE

Germany's latest effort at sucking dry every inch of the invaded regions of France before she is obliged to evacuate them has just come to light in the discovery that the canals and rivers of northern France are being seined lifeless of eatable fish. The discovery was only made when the French recently undertook the task of rendering these waterways navigable after the German destruction of bridges, locks, embankments and barges.

The necessity of draining dry many of the canals and portions of river beds rendered unusable by the Germans has brought to light the numerous fish traps, seines, barriers and other appliances used by the Germans in order to catch absolutely every fish. Frequently the canals and rivers were divided up into sections with barriers across each end in order to render impossible the escape of a single fish. Evidence has also been found of the use of explosives for stunning the fish and bringing them to the surface where they were raked in with hand nets. Previous to the German invasion of the canals, rivers and waterways of France had been brought to a high state of fish productiveness both by stocking them and by the enforcement of practical laws regarding fishing. The idea was to keep the productiveness of these streams up to their highest pitch at all times. River fishing constituted one of the very important industries of the country, and a careful observance of the fishing laws insured the permanency of the river stocks.

The one idea dominating the Germans appears to have been to make certain that after their evacuation, it would be years before the French would again be able to restock the rivers and canals to their former plentifulness.

Advertising is today the mightiest factor in the business world. It is an evolution of modern industrial competition. It is a business builder, with a potency that goes beyond human desire. It is something more than a "drummer" knocking at the door of the consumer, something more than mere salesmanship on paper. It is a positive creative force in business. It builds factories, skyscrapers and railroads. It makes two blades of grass grow where one grew before. It multiplies human wants and intensifies human desires. It furnishes excuse to timorous and hesitating ones for possessing the things which under former conditions they could easily get along without. The human mind is so constructed that it is appreciably affected by repetition; and, after all, advertising is only repetition.—Alhambra Advocate.

"Use perishable food and help win the war," say the food bulletins coming out of Washington. Of course the grass is going to wither and decay and the next thing we know those impractical people down there will be advising us to eat it in order to save it. This would be just about as sensible as some of the other advice they are handing out.

Co-operation in all kinds of business and work is what leads to general business success. There is nothing better for a city than community co-operation. Keep money in the community so far as possible.

THURSDAY CANDY DAY

Many generous responses are being made to the appeal for candy for our boys. Dead Man's Island is a lonely place; let us show the boys we are thinking of them. Mr. Pelley has promised 20 lbs. of candy. Chaffee's Grocery has donated a 5-lb. box of delicious chocolates. Many private individuals have phoned their intention of sending candy. We need more and more. There are 95 boys in the camp. We want 95 lbs. of candy and then some. Mr. Pierson Hanning and Mr. J. Preston are willing to load their automobile to the limit. Many High School girls are making candy right now. Let every reader of this paper make or order a pound of candy and send it to the Chamber of Commerce on Wednesday. Books and magazines are also welcomed.

How many could be made happy with the blessings which are recklessly thrown away!

In the daily routine of life you ask of those with whom you come in contact both honesty and fairness of treatment.

More so, than ever, do you need such help during the sorrows of bereavement. Then, as at no other time, you ask and have a right to expect conscientious service—the kind "you" yourself would give were you able to do so.

You ask and expect an impressive service, free of needless expense, yet fitting the occasion.

In using Scovern-Letton-Frey Co. service either in our mortuary, at the church or in your own home, you will find all these requirements met—quietly, restfully and in good taste.

FEAR OF DEATH

They were discussing death, a little group of men all of them in the best of health, and the glory of living. Men of the world, in a sense, and enjoying life to its utmost, the subject of death was introduced by the announcement that a widely known man with whom all had been acquainted, had passed away.

One of the party said he hated to think of death, that he was actually afraid to think of it. He so loved life that death seemed a terrible enemy, and he would like to escape it. But the philosopher of the party—only he was not known as a philosopher until he delivered his little preachment—said he could not understand such an attitude toward death.

"I am not afraid of anything that is natural," he said. "It is the unnatural that alarms me. It would be unnatural to live forever, and I would hate to be sentenced to such a punishment. But death is natural; I am not afraid of it. Billions of people have died. They are dying every day. Every soul on earth must pass away; even the trees and plants die. Little children have died and old men and women, and the birds and beasts all pass away, and the fishes in the streams, and every living thing upon the earth is to die. Why, then, should a great hulk of a chap like myself, one who has had and is having his time, why should I fear death?"

Not afraid of that which is natural! If only all of us could understand that the natural is good, and the unnatural bad, what a splendid world it would be for everything and everybody.—Columbus Dispatch.

Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, who has worked long and earnestly for the suffrage cause, says that 90 per cent. of the suffragists of the United States deplore the White House picketing, but she adds that the misguided women display a lack of reasoning which is far exceeded by that of "the men, either within or without Congress, who hide behind the pickets and their purple banners and seek to make the conduct of a few women an excuse for their own failure to vote for the political freedom of millions of loyal, patriotic, and law-abiding women of the United States." Dr. Shaw's point is well taken. The men who judge the great mass of suffragists by the picketers would not themselves be pleased were they judged by the soapboxers.
